Do you support wildcard / catch-all email forwarding?

We regret to inform you that we do not offer a wildcard or catch-all email forwarding service. A catch-all forwards any email sent to a specific domain to a designated address.

These services are no longer practical for us to offer, as they result in a high volume of spam being forwarded to the destination address, often leading the destination server to rate-limit or refuse connections from other servers.

As an alternative to the catch-all, we offer unlimited email forwarders, allowing you to set up separate email addresses or aliases at your domain name.
